Lincoln Boyd, Ky., re-elected Speaker. J. W. Forney re-elected Clerk.

There is no later information from the seat of war, but there were rumors of a decisive battle having been fought near Bucharest, though it was not stated who were victorious.

Details have been received of the recent affair at Ottenitz, which prove it to have been a brilliant Turkish victory, in which 1200 Russians were killed and wounded, and eight guns were captured by the Turks.

The Turks have nearly one hundred thousand men across the Danube. The Fourth Regiment of Poles in the Russian service, are evidently disaffected, having favored the passage of the Turks over the Danube, and neglected to give the alarm when they saw them crossing the river.

General Skarobe, the Russian Commander, has received orders to act on the offensive.

The Turkish fleet are in the Black Sea; the Anglo French fleet are in the sea of Marmora. Russia has prohibited an embargo on Turkish shipping from the 23d October, but neutral flags will be respected.

Count Nesselrode's diplomatic circular has been published, and has excited strong remarks from the French and British press. The Turkish Government will have nothing to do with the proposed amendment to the Vienna note, but insists on a perfectly new treaty, as a definite settlement.

KLAPOA, the hero of Canova, has received a command on the Danube in the Turkish service. The Circassians continue to gain success in Asia.

LOUIS NAPOLEON expresses himself strongly in favor of active operations to the Turks, but the British Government evidently vacillates. Prussia has given notification that she reserves to herself perfect liberty of action in Eastern affairs. Austria professes neutrality.

Latest.

VIENNA, Monday, eighth.—The Russian Commander moved forward to Ottenitz with twenty-four thousand troops, mostly infantry. On the 11th met the Turks, and a plain battle ensued. The Russians were compelled to retreat a second time in disorder at Bicharest, having lost three thousand men, by four attacks on Ottenitz. It is reliably stated, that on the 9th the Turks were driven from the island opposite Gergerio; reinforcements came, when they retook the island, and held it. The Czar summarily discharged the English operatives from the Russian Navy Yards.

It is stated that the Russian Ambassador at Paris has informed the French Government that in the allied fleets pass into the Black Sea his Government will consider it a declaration of war.

The new Collector at New York has made ninety removals.

Ex-Governor Williams, of New Hampshire, has been appointed Senator in place of Armatron, deceased.

A letter in the Herald from Consul Sanders, at London, states that the Porte has advised Austria that unless she withdraws from her frontiers, or her neutrality is guaranteed by England and France, he will declare war against her. Kossuth's agent was openly received at Constantinople, and placed at the head of a strong division to march on Hungary unless the above is complied with. The same letter says, officers had been made to Captain Potter, of the Golden Age, and Howard, the owner, which will probably result in their going to Constantinople.

The barque Salama has arrived from Smyrna, with Kozista on board.

Political.

A rumor prevailed just before the sailing of the Atlanta, that Lord Aberdeen had resigned his office.

The latest despatches state that the Sultan has assumed the command of his army, personally. England is fully inclined to secure peace.

The Emperor of France is anxious for war and declares that the Czar has gone far enough. The French armies have become much excited and express themselves as anxious to enter into battle.

The Turks have been compelled to evacuate their strong-hold in front of the position occupied by the Russian army at Guirguro.

Fighting continues near Bucharest, and the Turks are sanguine of their success.

POSKI ETREH is expected to take command of the Russians.

The Czar designs approaching the seat of war. The Turks have crossed the Danube with a force amounting to one hundred thousand soldiers, and have gained ten strong points.

Embargo has been laid upon all Turkish vessels found in Russian harbors.

The Turks refused to consider any proposition previously submitted looking to an adjustment, or any of the previous negotiations approved by the two contracting parties. They insist on new treaties.

The Turks have been generally successful. The Poles in the Russian army have become disaffected, and many have been shot.

The Russian Commander countermanded an order which had been previously given, for the troops at Odessa to embark.

KLOPPA, the Hungarian general, has been appointed to a command in the Turkish army.

GORTSCHAKOFF has issued an order to Turkish subjects to quit the Principality.

The Russians maintain a defensive attitude. Servia is rapidly arming her reserves.

The Turkish army at Saphia, numbering one hundred thousand, will sustain OMAR PASHA.

ODD FELLOWSHIP IN ILLINOIS.—In Illinois, during the past year, dispensations were granted for the institution of seventeen new lodges, which were ordered to be chartered. There are, in all, one hundred and thirty-one lodges in this State, with a membership of five thousand two hundred and thirteen.

The Eastern War.

The first thought of a war with Russia is almost an overwhelming one. A glance at the map exhibits the biggest half of Europe, set out by exhibits and bounds, of land and water, and ice, and apportioned to the royal appetite of the Czar. From the Carpathian to the Ural mountains, from the Black Sea to the dim verge of the Arctic Circle, the power of the Russ prevails in Europe. Stretching into Asia and still guarding the secret of the pole, a broad expanse of territory, spreading almost to within hail of the American shore, owns allegiance to the Autocrat. While upon the South it overlooks the whole northern frontier of the Chinese Empire. Territorially, it is the gigantic warder of the whole eastern hemisphere, and displays the general attributes of an imperial dominion that might hold the world in awe.

And such might be Russian destiny, were no other single nation accumulating by its "manifest destiny" the power to cope with it. But Russia as it is, presents a most formidable aspect to the nations of the world, and they may well stand off and debate, to the very nicest point of honor, the necessity of a final appeal to arms. Indeed, one would be at a loss whether to honor the courage or censure the rashness of any other European nation that could be easily provoked to try the issue of war with Russia. France and England, with all their skill, experience, resources, and martial and naval renown, would be too politic to call the Muscovite into the field. Yet to-day, Turkey is at war with Russia; the Moslem has deliberately charged upon the series hosts of the "Christian" invader; the Crescent is flouting the Cross upon a well fought, and victorious field.

Turkey, of late, scarce deemed a power of Europe—a nation talked of as existing by sufferance and presence, and only against the rapacity of the Czar by that sort of honor proverbial amongst thieves—has thrown aside with disdain and dignity the flimsy pretences of diplomacy, and negotiates with the cannon's mouth. France and England, who have affected to be the guardians of Turkish honor, and allies of the Turkish cause, are silent and inactive. If the battle is to be fought by the Moslem alone, it will be at fearful odds; and lost or won, England and France would be equally disgraced by their officious interference, ostentatious pretensions, and "most lame and impotent conclusions."

The last advices from Europe indicate that Turkey is animated by resolution, zeal, and above all, a courageous self-reliance. She no longer relies upon France and England, but virtually discharges them as false to their professions, and unworthy of her confidence. They have suffered Russia to invade her territory, and to demolish an army upon her soil. To commit a deliberate act of war, and then to degrade her with petulant and insolent negotiation. It is impossible to foresee what they would not have induced the Sultan to submit to if they could. But he has ceased from them; and his armies are in the field. The war is in progress by the act of Russia, and Turkey is fighting in her own defence.

A war between Turkey and Russia could hardly be of long duration. Russia would overwhelm the Porte and annex it. But Russia has enemies in the Caucasus; enemies all over Austria; enemies implacable in Hungary; an enemy where ever a Pole or a Hungarian breathes, even Russian air. In France and England both, if not near the throne, the enemies of Russia are legion.

And popular opinion in England may yet reflect a demonstration through a change of ministry, and her fleets be made to thunder, on behalf of the Turk, the indignation of the British people. Of France there is hope, at the instance of her emperor; and if he is fairly reported, French gunnery will go into full practice upon the Euxine at an early opportunity. Should this be done, a war will have begun, the end of which it would be vain to conjecture; but we may infer that it would involve the humiliation of Russian power and the promotion of the cause of human liberty.

SAXONY SHEEP.—Among other valuable matters received by the bark Copernicus, we notice eight Saxony sheep—six rams and two ewes—the Electoral flock—an improvement on the Spanish breed. They were imported by Capt. JONAS A. WAGNER, of this city, and are destined for Wallalla, the German settlement in Pickens District, and will prove a most valuable acquisition to the gentlemen engaged in sheep rearing in that vicinity. Capt. WAGNER has also imported two Shepherd's Dogs, which, with the sheep, may be seen by those who take an interest in such matters, for a few days, at No. 69 Queen-street.

A BEAUTIFUL MIND.—A beautiful mind is like a prolific seed, the mother of loveliness, the fountain of bliss, the produce of many treasured and estimable flowers which no canker can deface nor time destroy. Even should there be those of its lovely produce that pass away, yet the source is there, the seed remains to revive, to reembody, to place again on our bosom and near our hearts, in renewed beauty, in the same deep interest and winning power as at first. It should be gathered in as the richest possession, as the well spring of the purest, most abundant and enduring joys; as our support, our comfort, and the cherished object worthy of our highest admiration, and we could cling to it, thanking God that it is immortal, living forever.

A TUNNEL THAT WILL BE A TUNNEL.—We perceive by the foreign papers, that the council of the Canton of Ticino has decided by a majority of 60 to 11, to give out the making of a tunnel through the Alps, from Lake Maggiore to Lake Constance, to unite the Piedmontese line with that of Central Germany. This tunnel will be sixteen English miles—25,000 metres—length, and is to be lighted by fifty shafts of enormous depth.

YOUNG AMERICA.—"My son," said a doating father who was about taking his son into business, "what shall be the style of the new firm?"—"Well, governor," said the one-and-twenty year old, looking up in the heavens to find an answer, "I don't know; but suppose we have it John H. Sampson and Father." The old gentleman was struck with the originality of the idea, but could not adopt it.

SAGACITY OF A GANDER.—One day last week a gander was "on duty" near the canal basin, keeping guard over a flock of goslings, which led to a rencontre between his gandership and the rooster. The contest, however, was of short duration, for the gander seized the cock by the neck and straightway fled into the canal, where he thrust his antagonist under water, and there held him until he was dead.—New York paper.

A BIBLICAL CRITIC.—The best specimen of original criticism we ever heard was in a stage coach ride to Berry Edge. Three of us were talking about Adam and his fall. The point of discussion was the apparent impossibility that a perfect man like Adam could commit sin.

"But he wasn't perfect," ejaculated one of the three.

"Wasn't perfect?" we ejaculated in amazement.

"No, sir, he wasn't perfect," repeated our commentator.

"What do you mean?" we asked.

"Well," answered the authority, "he was made perfect, I admit, but he didn't stay perfect."

"How?"

"Why, was not one of his ribs removed? If he was perfect with all his ribs, he was not perfect after losing one—was he, say?"

Our say was silence. We were convinced then, that woman was the cause of man's original imperfection.—Oathoy (Eng.) Observer.

THE RAVAGES OF THE YELLOW FEVER AT BERMUDA.—This little island, usually one of the healthiest places in the world, has suffered terribly from the ravages of the yellow fever. A late letter states that, out of four hundred troops taken sick, two hundred had died. Thirteen officers had also perished, and one hundred and twenty-three convicts. The convicts were still dying at the rate of six or eight daily.

A typographical error in a Cleveland paper made one of the hills of Japan only five hundred miles high. In the next issue the editor requests his readers to deduct 2,639,500 feet from the former statement.
